

Announcement

for a brief interruption of the teaching classes

The Erasmus students of the Faculty of Law are informed that two days during the last ten days of October the teaching classes will not take place.

The aforementioned days are:

The 26th of October, 2016, Wednesday, Aristotle University will be closed due to a religious holiday.

The 28th of October, 2016, Friday, Aristotle University will be closed due to a national anniversary.

The day between the above two, Thursday, the 27th of October, 2016, which is a working day, the teaching classes officially will take place unless the Erasmus students are informed directly from the professors of each course if they will held their classes or not.
